

System Architecture Document

This document outlines the high-level system architecture for Project Aether.

Project Aether operates on top of the central compute engine designated as Subsystem-X9.

All security protocols and memory allocations for Project Aether are delegated directly to Subsystem-X9.